

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

This Little Work on Chivalry

IS INSCRIBED.

Oh ! tell unto me,
What news bring you home from the Holy Countrie ?
And how goes the warfare by Galilee's strand ?
And how fare our knighthood, the flower of the land ?

It is strange—marvellously strange—that our little bugle should be the first to muster the Knightage Roll of England, although England's chivalrie, "anciente merrie England's," has ever been renowned amongst the most gorgeous and the most gallant in the regal halls and tented fields of Christendom. The banner of St. George is as young to-day as it was five hundred years ago ; and floats as triumphantly on the battlement of Acre in 1840, as it did on the field of Cressi in 1346. Reader, gallant or gentle, join in our hope and our prayer, that it may be as brave and as buoyant five hundred years hence.

“————— Chevalrie,
Truth, and honour, freedom, and courtesie.”—CHAUCER.

CHIVALRY, though perchance founded in caprice, and productive of occasional extravagance, exercised a very considerable influence in refining the manners of the European nations during the eleventh, twelfth, and thirteenth centuries. Its institution, properly so called, cannot be traced farther back than the eleventh, when the rudiments of the “Laws of the Order” may be found in the decisions of the famous Council of Clermont. Religion, valour, and gallantry, were blended in its formation; humanity, courtesy, justice, and honour, were its characteristic qualities; the enthusiastic zeal produced by religion served to give it singular energy, and to carry it even to a romantic excess. "Men," says a very distinguished historian, "were trained to knight-hood by long previous discipline; they were admitted into the order by solemnities no less devout than pompous; every person of noble birth courted the honour, it was deemed a distinction superior to royalty, and monarchs were found to receive it from the hands of private gentlemen *." Another elegant writer, Lord Lyttleton, observes, "that the brightest virtues which dignified either the history of this nation or that of any other people in the whole Christian world were chiefly derived from this source. Had it not been for the spirit of chivalry, the corruption of religion, the want of all good learning, the superstition, the ferocity, the barbarism of the times, would have extinguished all virtue and sense of humanity, as well as all generous sentiments of honour in the hearts of the nobility and gentry of Europe; nor could they have been able to resist the military enthusiasm of the Saracens and Turks, without the aid of another kind of fanaticism which was excited and nourished in them by means of that spirit."

With the advance too of chivalry progressed

* It is impossible not to be reminded here of the answer which Charles VI. gave to his father when he offered him the choice of a crown of gold or of a helmet, as the badge of that chivalry which he professed to admire. "Monseigneur," exclaimed the young prince with energy, "donnez-moi le casque et gardez votre couronne."

literature and science, and that purity of feeling and enthusiastic love of all that is good and generous, which inspired so many a poet's lay :—

The gentle Surrey loved his lyre—
 Who has not heard of Surrey's fame ?
 His was the hero's soul of fire.
 And his the bard's immortal name,
 And his was love exalted high,
 By all the glow of chivalry.

To ascertain the true origin of the orders of knighthood, we must go back to the time of the Crusades, when a love of the Christian faith was the very soul of chivalry, and when the noble and enterprising of Europe hastened to Palestine. "The Cross of Christ," says the elegant author of the Broad Stone of Honour, "was no sooner lifted up as the standard under which the defenders of the faith were to rally, than all Europe was united in a band of brothers to worship the Saviour of mankind. Germany, France, and England, poured forth the flower of their youth and nobility ; men who were led by no base interest or selfish expectation, but who went with single hearts renouncing the dearest blessings of their country and station to defend the cause that they loved, and to protect from insult and wrong the persecuted servants of their Saviour.

*Chevaliers en ce monde cy
 Ne peuvent vivre sans soucy :
 Ils doivent le peuple défendre,
 Et leur sange pour la foi espandre."*

The cardinal qualities exacted from the "preux chevalier" are well expressed in an old French knightly rhyme.

A Dieu mon ame,
Ma vie au roi,
Mon cœur aux dames,
L'honneur pour moi.

Arrayed with his hauberk and lance, and mounted on his gallant charger, attended by his faithful squire and men-at-arms, and distinguished by his banner and armorial coat, the knight pursued his pilgrimage to the Holy Land, bound by his oath to despise the allurements of ease and pleasure, and courting from inclination hostility and danger: his course was marked by deeds of daring and almost incredible prowess; when his vow was performed or his religious passion satiated in fruitless victories hardly known at home, but, as he believed, registered as merits in heaven, the holy conqueror returned to his native land, by a route often more dangerous and through adventures more extraordinary than had occurred on his journey from it, and brought back with him a restlessness of disposition and incurable love of martial employment which such a life could not fail to create. With the Crusades then arose the first orders of knighthood during the 12th century, when the piety and humanity of some merchants of Amalfi, who traded in Judea, induced them to build an hospital dedicated to St. John the Almoner, for the reception of the pilgrims who frequented the Holy Sepulchre, and thus they originated the Hospitalers of St. John, who, when the Princes of the West entered the Holy Land, joined the banner of the Crusade, and became, in the sequel, under the designation of knights of Rhodes, and afterwards of Malta, the most essential bulwark against the progress of the Ottoman arms. The influence of this celebrated order extended throughout the whole of Europe, and comprised eight languages, those of the different nations of which the order was composed, namely Provence, Auvergne, France, Italy, Arragon, Germany, Castile, and England. Ashmole states that at one period the power of the Knights of St. John was so great, that "they possessed in Christendom about 19,000 manors." In England their Prior sat in parliament as the first baron of the kingdom; Prior hospitalis Sancti Johannis de Jerusalem. They wore the black habit of St. Augustin originally, with a plain white cross on the breast, but subsequently with one of eight points. The cross in time of war was on a scarlet cassock, —On his breast a silver cross he bore,

The dear remembrance of his dying Lord,
For whose sweet sake that glorious badge he wore,
And dead (as living) ever him adored.

Almost contemporaneously, certain Canons Regular of St. Augustin, who, during the rule of the Saracens, had been entrusted with the preservation of the tomb of our Saviour, imitated the example of the Hospitalers of St. John, and formed themselves into an order, assuming the title of Knights of the Holy Sepulchre. They gained celebrity by their valour during the time of the Christian kings of Jerusalem, but on the loss of the Holy Land, they took refuge in Perugia, and were incorporated with the Knights of Rhodes. Their ensign was "Arg. a cross potent, or, with a little cross between each of the principal angles."

To the order of the Sepulchre succeeded that of the Knight Templars, founded by Geoffrey of St. Omer, and Hugh de Paganis, who in conjunction with other pious persons formed a society for the purpose of protecting the highways to Jerusalem. King Baldwin allowed them to erect an hospital near the Temple of the Sepulchre, and hence they derived their designation. Their fame for martial prowess soon spread throughout Europe, and acquired for them great riches and vast endowments; in all probability the chief cause of the destruction of the order which was accomplished by the machinations of Philip the Fair in 1312. The Knight Templars, according to Dugdale, wore linen coifs, like the serjeants at law, and red caps close over them; on their bodies shirts of mail and swords girded on with a broad belt, over all they had a white cloak reaching to the ground, with a cross on their left shoulder. Their first settlement in England was in Holborn, London, but, from the reign of Henry II., they chiefly resided in the Temple, Fleet-street, which they built as well as the church,* after the exact plan of the Temple at Jerusalem, in the year 1185. The Badge of the Order was a Patriarchal Cross, enamelled red, and edged with gold.

The Teutonic order, created in the same year as that of the Templars, owed its origin to the piety of a German nobleman, who, in the time of the holy war, resided in Jerusalem and erected there an hospital for the reception and maintenance of pilgrims of his own nation. This foundation soon became enriched by the donations of its German visitants, and the brethren assumed the designation of Teutonic Knights of the Hospital of our Lady of the Germans of Jerusalem. About the year 1230, Conrad, Duke of Suabia, inviting them into Europe, assigned to their use the territory of Culm, and they eventually succeeded in the conquest of Prussia, which they possessed until 1525, when Albert of Brandenburg, their last Grand Master, became feudatory to Sigismond, king of Poland, who created him 1st Duke of Prussia. From him the present Royal family of that country derive their right. The Teutonic Knights wore a white mantle, and had for a badge a cross potent sa. charged with another cross double potent, or surcharged with an escutcheon of the empire, the principal cross surmounted by a chief az. semée of France. The original badge assigned by the Emperor, Henry VI., was a cross potent sa., to which John, King of Jerusalem, added the cross double potent gold: the Emperor Frederic gave them the imperial eagle, and St. Louis augmented the badge with the chief az. semée of fleurs de lis.

In addition to the foregoing, various other orders arose in the different kingdoms of Europe, but especially in Spain and France, where chivalry appears to have earliest taken root, and to have flourished in its flower and pride. Who has not read with admiration and delight of the gallant exploits of the knightly warriors of St. James and Calatrava, or where, in the whole range of modern history, can we discover aught comparable with the deeds of a St. Louis, a Du Guesclin, or a Bayard? In England, chivalry was of later birth, and slower growth, nor until the intercourse with France became familiar, were the English knights of much celebrity*. In the inglorious reigns of John and Henry III. the order declined, but revived with Edward I., one of the most accomplished knights of the age, and it shone with increased splendour

* There were formerly two kinds of knights; KNIGHTS Banneret, those on whom the honour of knighthood was conferred under the Royal Banner displayed, and KNIGHTS Bachelor, the lower grade, or, as the word implies, Bas chevaliers. The last Knight Banneret was Sir James Smith, thus rewarded for recovering the king's standard after the battle of Edgehill. Something similar to a restoration of the rank occurred in 1773, when, at a naval review at Portsmouth, George III. knighted, under the Royal Banner, Admirals Pye and Spry, (grand-uncle of the present Sir Samuel Thomas Spry, M.P. of Place and Tregolls;) and Captains Knight, Bickerton, and Vernon.

amid the achievements of his grandson Edward III. This distinguished prince having laid claim to the crown of France, resolved, while he invited into his service the most enterprising and valiant of the subjects of other sovereigns, to inspire into his own a spirit of enterprise equally gallant and daring. With this view he proclaimed many gorgeous tournaments, at which strangers skilled "in deeds of martial fame" were entertained, honoured, and rewarded; and as a farther impetus followed the institution of the Order of the Garter,

Of which the Black Prince, Edward's own renowned son, was the first knight, while all enrolled with him had rendered their names conspicuous in feats of arms. Camden gives the following list of those noble persons who were the original Knights of the Garter, and are designated founders of the Order: Edward III. King of England; Edward, Prince of Wales; Henry, Duke of Lancaster; Thomas, Earl of Warwick; Piers Captain de Beauch; Ralph, Earl of Stafford; William, Earl of Salisbury; Roger, Earl of March; John Lisle, Bartholomew Burghersh, John Beauchamp, John de Mohun, Hugh Courtenay, Thomas Holland, John Grey, Robert Fitzsimon, Miles Stapleton, Thomas Wale, Hugh Wrottesley, Nele Loring, John Chandos, James de Audley, Otho Holland, Henry Ewe, Sauchet Dabridgecourt, William Paynel.

This illustrious order was instituted, according to the testimony of Camden, on the occasion of the battle of Cressy, Edward ordering his garter to be displayed as a signal for the onset, in commemoration whereof, continues the same learned author, he made a garter the principal ornament of the order, erected in memory of his signal victory, and a symbol of the indissoluble union of the knights. A popular tradition prevails, but it is not supported by any ancient authority, that the order was instituted in honour of a garter of Joan Countess of Salisbury, which her ladyship is stated to have dropped in dancing at a court ball, and which King Edward picked up, remarking in French to some courtiers, who smiled at the circumstance, "Honi soit qui mal y pense;" and adding, that shortly after they should see that garter advanced to so high an honour that they would account themselves happy to wear it. Be the origin of its institution, however, what it may, no lay order in Europe is so ancient, none more illustrious. Emperors, kings, and princes, have been enrolled as its companions; and warriors, statesmen, and patriots, the bravest, the ablest, and the purest, have been honoured with its insignia.

ORDER OF THE GARTER.

THE Order comprises the Sovereign and twenty-five companions, styled Knights of the Garter; and for their regulation and governance, a body of statutes was ordained by the founder, to which have been since added two other bodies of statutes, one established by Henry V., the other by Henry VIII. The principal Officers of the Order are five in number :

THE PRELATE. Charles Richard Sumner, D.D., Bishop of Winchester.

THE CHANCELLOR. Richard Bagot, D.D., Bishop of Oxford.

THE REGISTRAR. The Hon. and Rev. Dr. Hobart, Dean of Windsor.

THE GARTER KING OF ARMS. Sir William Woods, Knt.

THE USHER OF BLACK ROD. Sir Augustus Clifford, Bart., C.B.

PRELATE OF THE GARTER.

The prelate is the first and premier officer : his office is as ancient as the institution, and is of great honour ; but there is neither salary nor pecuniary fee attached. Apartments are allotted in Windsor Castle, on the north side, called Winchester Tower, and as often as the Prelate goes thither, he is allowed court livery for himself and servants, according to the degree of an earl. This office vests in the Bishop of Winchester for the time being.

By his oath, he is to be present at all chapters whereunto he is summoned, to report all things truly, to take the scrutiny faithfully and present it to the Sovereign, to keep secret the counsels of the Order, to promote and maintain the honour of it. His Lordship takes place in parliament, ex officio, next to the Bishop of Durham.

By a warrant under signet of the Order, dated 19th February, 13 Charles II., the Prelate had assigned him for his livery of the Order, one robe of purple velvet, containing eighteen yards, and ten yards of white taffety for lining, as also the arms of St. George within the Garter, having laces, buttons, and tassels, of purple silk and Venice gold. He is to wear this robe yearly, on the Vigil and day of St. George, whether it be in parliament, or any other solemn occasion or festival whatever. The privileges attached to the prelate are, that his place in all proceedings and ceremonies of the Order is on the right hand of the Chancellor, and his arms are impaled with those of his see, surrounded with the Garter.

When he is not invested with his robe, he wears a scutcheon of the arms of St. George, but not encircled with pearls and stones.

CHANCELLOR OF THE GARTER.

This office vests in the Bishop of Salisbury for the time being. The chancellor has custody of the Great Seal of the Order, and takes place and precedence in all ceremonies and sessions next the Prelate; in all assemblies he ranks after the Knights and Privy Councillors, and before the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The statutes allow him apartments in Windsor Castle, in the south-west tower, and in the lower ward called Chancellor's Tower.

His oath, robe, and livery, in the Sovereign's court, are the same as the Prelate's: his office is not only to seal original statutes, appointed to remain perpetually in Windsor Castle, but also those copies, of which each Knight-Companion is obliged to have one, are in his keeping, with letters of license, mandates, and certificates relating to the Order.

The Chancellor's badge of distinction is a medal of gold, enamelled with a red rose, within a garter of blue enamel, with the motto, "HONI SOIT QUI MAL Y PENSE;" and on the reverse thereof, St. George enamelled within the Garter, pendant to a purple riband or gold chain.

REGISTRAR OF THE GARTER.

The Registrar was one of the three officers constituted at the first institution of the Order. His mantle is crimson satin, lined with taffety, and a scutcheon of St. George's arms, embroidered on the left shoulder, but not encircled with a Garter, having tassels the same as the Prelate and Chancellor.

He has apartments in the castle of Windsor: on his breast is a red book of the Order, with this device, two pens in saltire, within the Garter.

GARTER.

The fourth officer of the Order is Garter, instituted by Henry V., with the advice and consent of all the Knights-Companions, and is the principal officer within the College of Arms, and chief of the Heralds.

The services enjoined him, relating to the Order, were, in preceding times, performed by the Windsor Herald of Arms, an officer created by King Edward III.

His robe is the same as the Registrar; he wears pendant to a chain a gold medal enamelled with the Sovereign's Arms, impaled with the Cross of St. George, surrounded with the Garter, and crowned with an imperial crown.

BLACK ROD.

The fifth officer is the Black Rod, instituted by the founder, and according to the statutes, he is to be a gentleman of blood and arms, born within the Sovereign's dominions, and if not a Knight at his admission into the office, he is to be knighted; and for the honour of the Order, he is appointed the Chief Usher in the kingdom.

In a Chapter held at Whitehall the 13th February, 6 Charles I., it was decreed, that the office of the Black Rod should thenceforth successively, as soon as the same should become void, be annexed to some one of the Gentlemen Ushers, Daily Waiters, whom the Sovereign should appoint.

The oath given to this officer (temp. Henry VIII.) was "truly and faithfully to observe and keep all the points of the statutes of the Order as to him belonged and appertained." His mantle is the same as the Registrar and Garter. It was ordained that he or his deputy should carry a Black Rod (whence he hath his title) before the Sovereign or his deputy, at the feast of St. George, within the Castle of Windsor, and at other solemnities and chapters of the Order; on the top of the Rod there ought to be set a Lion of England. This Rod serves instead of a mace, and has the same authority to apprehend delinquents, and such as have offended against the statutes of the Order.

Black Rod has assigned him a gold badge, to be worn pendent to a chain or riband before his breast; a knot (like those on the collar of the Order) encompassed with the Garter and Motto, being alike on both sides.

There is a house in Windsor Castle granted to this officer by letters patent during life. It is situated on the south side of the Castle, in the middle ward. By the constitution, he is granted Baron's service at the church, and livery thereto appertaining.

King Charles I. annexed to this officer the little Park of Windsor for ever; and not to be disposed of but under the Great Seal of the Order, and that only to the Usher of the Order for the time being.

The habit and ensigns of the Order consist of a surcoat, garter, mantle, hood, george, collar, cap, and feathers: the first four were assigned by the founder Edward III., the others by Henry VIII. The motto on the garter and star is "HONI SOIT QUI MAL Y PENSE." The garter is of blue velvet, bordered with gold. The George is the figure of St. George on horseback, in armour, encountering a dragon, with a tilting spear, the whole of gold, enamelled: it is worn across the left shoulder, pendent to a dark or garter-blue riband. The collar is of gold, weighing thirty ounces troy weight, and contains twenty-six garters, enamelled ppr. in each a rose gu, and as many knots, enamelled white, to which is pendent the George, as above. Charles I. ordained that the knights should always, in public, wear, embroidered on the left side of their coats or cloaks, the cross of St. George surmounted with the garter, with rays of silver, forming a star of eight points.

MOTTO—HONI SOIT QUI MAL Y PENSE.

ORDER OF THE THISTLE.

THE Order of the THISTLE or ST. ANDREW was instituted, according to John Lesley, Bishop of Ross, by Achaius, King of Scots, in commemoration of the appearance in the heavens of a bright cross, in the form of that whereon St. Andrew suffered martyrdom, seen by Achaius the night preceding the victory he achieved over Athelstan of England. It is further related that the Scottish king went, after the battle, to the kirk of St. Andrew in solemn procession, and returned thanks to God and his Apostle for the success of his arms, promising that he and his posterity should ever have the figure of that Cross in their ensigns or banners.

Favin states that Achaius instituted the order in honour of the famous league concluded by him with Charlemagne: but the learned Nisbet, rejecting these traditional assertions, gives the year 1500 as the period of its institution. The sudden death of JAMES V., and the troubles that overshadowed the reign of his successor the unhappy Mary Stuart, nearly extinguished the Order, which continued neglected until restored by JAMES VII., who, in 1687, issued his warrant for letters patent to be passed for "reviving and renewing the Order of the Thistle." Thus re-organised, it continued to flourish during the remainder of his Majesty's reign, but, with the accession of William and Mary, was again laid aside and again remained dormant until finally resuscitated temp. Queen Anne, when the following statutes passed and still are in force :

Statutes and Orders of the most ancient Order of the Thistle, revived by her Majesty Anne, by the Grace of God Queen of Scotland, England, France, and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, Sovereign of the said Order, for the better regulating the Proceedings and Solemnities thereof, in all the circumstances thereunto belonging.

"In the first place, we think fit to continue the ancient number of knights, to wit, twelve brethren, with ourselves the Sovereign of the said Most Noble Order, to be the precise number of that order in all time coming.

"That the Sovereign's habit be such as they shall think fit at any time hereafter to appoint. That the habit of the brethren of this Order be a doublet and trunk hose of cloth of silver, stockings of pearl-coloured silk, with white leather shoes ; garters and shoestrings of green and silver ; the breeches and sleeves of the doublet decently garnished with silver and green ribands ; a surcoat of purple velvet, lined with white taffeta, girt about the middle with a purple sword-belt, edged with gold, and a buckle of gold, at which a sword with a gilted hilt, whereof the shell is to be in the form of the badge of the Order, and the pommel in the form of the Thistle, in a scabbard of purple velvet; over all which a mantle or robe of green velvet, lined with white taffeta, with tassels of gold and green, upon the left shoulder of which, in a field of green St. Andrew the Apostle his image, bearing before him the Cross of his Martyrdom of silver embroidered, with a circle of gold round it, upon which the motto, "Nemo me impune lacessit" in letters of green; and at the lower part of it a thistle of gold and green, the flower reddish; about the shoulder is to be worn the collar of the Order, consisting of thistles and sprigs of rue going betwixt, at the middle of which, before, is to be hung the St. Andrew of gold, enamelled white, or of diamonds consisting of the number of thirteen just, the Cross and feet of St. Andrew resting upon a ground of green, the collar to be tied to the shoulder of the robe, with white ribands; upon their heads on days of solemn procession or feasting, where the Sovereign is present, or has a commissioner for that effect, they are to wear (at the times of permission) a cap of black velvet faced up with a border of the same, a little divided before, wide and loose in the crown, having a large plume of white feathers with a black egret or heron's tip in the middle of it, the borders of the cap adorned with jewels. That the jewel of the said Order is to be worn at a green ribbon over the left shoulder, cross the body, and tied under the right arm. The jewel to have on the one side the image of St. Andrew with the cross before him enamelled as is above-said, or cut on stone, enriched with precious stones round it on the back of which shall be enamelled a thistle of gold and green, the flower reddish, with the before-mentioned motto round it, the ground upon which the thistle is to be done shall be enamelled green. That the medal of the Order be of gold, being the St. Andrew bearing before him the cross of his martyrdom, with a circle round on which to be the motto of the Order; and at the lower part of the circle between the joining of the words, a thistle, and to be worn in a green riband, as the jewel, at times when the jewel is not worn.

“That upon the left breast of the coat and cloak, shall be embroidered a badge of proportionable bigness, being St. Andrew's cross of silver embroidery, with rays going out betwixt the points of the cross, on the middle of which a thistle of gold and green upon a field of green; and round the thistle and field a circle of gold, having on it the motto of the Order, in letters of green.

“That her majesty and her royal successors, sovereigns of the said most Ancient and most Noble Order of the Thistle, shall in all time coming wear the said Order, on the ribbon of the Order of the Garter or otherwise in any manner that her Majesty shall think fit, and shall wear the collar of the said Order on the day of the feast of St. Andrew, being the 30th of November yearly.

“That the knights brethren of the said Order shall wear their collars on all collar days, wherever the sovereign is, and within Scotland, by obligations upon all days of public solemnities, whether the sovereign be there or not.

"That the collar-days be the same ordinary collar-days now observed by her Majesty; that the collar with the St. Andrew belonging to it, and the medal of the Order, given by her Majesty and successors sovereigns of the said Order to the knights brethren thereof at their admission, be returned at their deaths to the sovereign.

"The Order is to have a great seal in the custody of the Chancellor thereof, having on the dexter side St. Andrew's Cross, and on the sinister the arms of Great Britain, as they are carried by us in Scotland, encircled with the collar of the Order, with the image of St. Andrew hanging at it, with the motto of the Order going round the seal. On the other side the image of St. Andrew bearing a cross before him, with a glory round his head, written round "Magnum sigillum antiquissimi et nobilissimi ordinis cardui."

"That there be a Secretary of the Order, to transmit the Sovereign's orders to the knights brethren, and that he attend her royal person for that effect. He shall have on days of solemnity a mantle of green satin lined with white on the left shoulder of which the badge of St. Andrew's Cross; his ordinary badge is to be hung in a chain of gold, being a thistle of gold and green upon two pens crossed saltire ways, with the motto round about it, and an imperial crown upon the top. The Lion shall have robes and badges upon the shoulder, conform to the Secretary, in his hand his staff of office, and about his neck his badge, with the St. Andrew turned outward. The Usher conform to the Secretary in all things except his badge, which is to be two sprigs of rue in form of St. Andrew's cross, vert upon a ground white, upon which a thistle of gold; and round the motto upon which an imperial crown, and in his hand the baton of his office.

"Before any can be admitted to the most noble Order of the Thistle he must be a knight bachelor."

Here follows the form of the oath to be taken by all, as shall be admitted into this order as brethren.

"I shall fortify and defend the true reformed Protestant religion, and Christ's Most Holy Evangel, to the utmost of my power; I shall be loyal and true to my sovereign lady the Queen, Sovereign of this most ancient and most noble Order of the Thistle; I shall maintain and defend the statutes, privileges, and honours of the said Order.

"I shall never bear any treason about in my heart against our Sovereign Lady the Queen, but shall discover the same to her, so help me God."

"The oath being taken by the elect knights, before any whom the Sovereign shall appoint, they may actually wear the badge and other ornaments belonging to the Order; and in regard we have not as yet named a person to be Chancellor of the said Order, and that there is no great seal belonging thereto, we do therefore ordain that our signet of the said Order, which is to be in the custody of our Secretary to the said Order, shall serve for any warrant or order that we shall think fit to grant or emit for the nominating any of the knights, brethren, or officers, or any other thing relating to the said Order.

"The Royal Chapel of our palace of Holyrood House to be the chapel of the Order in time coming; that no alteration of the habit, jewel, collar, badge, or other ornaments belonging to the said Order, or of the using or wearing of them, be offered to her Majesty by any of the brethren without a concurrence of the majority of them. Given under our royal hand and signet of our court at St. James's, the 31st day of December, 1703. Year of our reign, the second.

"A. R.

"By Her Majesty's Command, CROMERTIE."

King George I., on the 17th Feb. 1714-15, was pleased to confirm the statutes signed by Queen Anne as above mentioned, with the addition of several more, amongst which was that of adding rays of glory to surround the whole figure of St. Andrew which hangs at the collar; and though from the time of the Reformation to the year 1714-15, both elections and instalments had been dispensed with, his Majesty was graciously pleased to ordain for the future that chapters of election should be held in his royal presence, to which end he ordered the great wardrobe to provide the knights brethren and officers of the Order with such mantles as the statutes of the said Order appointed.

The collar which the knights of St. Andrew wear upon the day of their grand feast and other extraordinary occasions is made of gold, consisting of thistles and sprigs of rue enamelled vert (being the two ancient symbols of the Scots and Picts), appendant to which is the image of St. Andrew, irradiated, bearing before him the cross of his martyrdom.

Their habit is their parliament robes, on the left breast thereof is a cross saltire, surmounted by a star of four points, all of silver, adorned with a green roundle bordered with gold, and lettered of the same, containing this motto, "Nemo me impune lacessit" ("No man provokes me with impunity"), and in the centre is a thistle proper, to which the motto alludes.

The ordinary symbols worn by the knights are the star, which is embroidered on their left breast, a green riband over their left shoulder (like the knights of the Garter), appendant to which is the image of St. Andrew, with his cross before him, in a circle of gold enamelled vert, with the motto of the Order. But sometimes they wear, encircled after the same manner, a thistle crowned with an imperial crown.

Note.—According to the Statutes of King James II., the knights brethren on their daily apparel were to wear the before-mentioned image of St. Andrew appendant to a blue watered tabby ribbon, which by Queen Anne, in 1703, was changed to green, as now worn.

OFFICERS OF THE ORDER.

PRELATE, Lord George Dela Poer Beresford, Archbishop of Armagh.

CHANCELLOR, Dr. Whately, Archbishop of Dublin.

REGISTRAR, The Dean of St. Patrick.

SECRETARY, The Honourable Captain Boyle.

GENEALOGIST, Sir Stewart Bruce, Bart.

USHER OF THE BLACK ROD, Sir William Leeson, Knight.

ULSTER KING OF ARMS ATTENDING THE ORDER, Sir William Beetham, Knight.

ORDER OF THE BATH.

THE origin of this Order of Knights, called from the ancient custom of bathing on the day previous to their installation, may be dated from the accession of Henry IV., who, at his coronation, conferred the dignity on forty-six Esquires. From that period until the reign of Charles II., it was the usual practice of our kings to create Knights of the Bath at their coronation, at the inauguration of the Prince of Wales, and at the celebration, either of their own nuptials, or those of any of the royal family. No fewer than sixty-eight Knights of the Bath were installed by Charles II. at his coronation; but from that time the order was discontinued, until revived by George I., who enacted statutes for its regulation, and restricted the number to the Sovereign, and thirty-seven Knights Commanders.

By statute, 2nd January 1815; it was ordained, that "for the purpose of commemorating the auspicious termination of the long and arduous contest in which this empire had been engaged, the Order should be composed of three classes, viz.—

First Class—to consist of Knights Grand

Crosses : number not to exceed seventy-two, exclusive of the Sovereign and Princes of the blood royal ; one sixth of which may be appointed for civil and diplomatic purposes. The remainder must have attained the rank of Major-General in the army, or Rear-Admiral in the navy, and must have been previously appointed to the second class.

Second Class—Knights Commanders : number not to exceed, upon the first institution, one hundred and eighty, exclusive of foreign officers holding British commissions, of whom not exceeding ten may be admitted as honorary Knights Commanders ; in the event of actions of signal distinction or of future wars, the number of this class may be increased. To be entitled to the distinctive appellation of knighthood ; to have the same rights and privileges as Knights Bachelors, but to take precedence of them ; to wear the badge, &c. pendent by a red ribbon round the neck, the star embroidered on the left side.

Third Class—Companions of the Order, not limited in number ; they are to take precedence of Esquires, but not entitled to the appellation, style, &c., of Knights Bachelors. To wear the badge assigned to the third class, pendent by a narrow red ribbon to the button hole.

. No officer can be nominated, unless he shall have received a medal, or other badge of honour, or shall have been specially mentioned in despatches in the London Gazette, as having distinguished himself in action.

THE STAR OF THE KNIGHTS GRAND CROSSES, borne upon the left breast, is of silver, formed with eight points of rays, wavy, charged with three imperial crowns ppr., upon a glory of silver rays, surrounded with a ribbon, gu., upon which the motto of the order.

STAR OF KNIGHTS COMMANDERS—Same as GRAND CROSSES.

STAR OF KNIGHTS COMPANIONS—Same as GRAND CROSSES, but smaller. The Collar is composed of nine imperial crowns of gold, and eight gold roses and thistles, issuing from a gold sceptre enamelled in proper colours, linked together with seventeen gold knots, enamelled white; pendent to the centre knot.

THE BADGE—viz. a rose issuing from the dexter side of a sceptre, and a thistle from the sinister, all between three imperial crowns encircled by the motto.

MOTTO —TRIA JUNCTA IN UNO.

LYNEDOCH, GENERAL THOMAS LORD, G.C.M.G., Colonel 1st Foot, only son of Thomas Graham, Esq., of Balgowan, in Perthshire, and the descendant of a common ancestor with the gallant Marquess of Montrose, and the heroic Lord Dundee, commenced his brilliant military career at the age of 43, in 1793, when he served with distinction as a volunteer at Toulon : he subsequently raised the 1st battalion of the 90th Regiment ; and in 1795, obtained the rank of Colonel in the Army. In 1796, Colonel Graham was allowed to join the Austrian army, and continued in that service during the memorable summer of 1796. He afterwards acted with the Austrians in Italy, and was shut up in Mantua with General Wurmser. In 1797, he was at the attack of Minorca, and not long after, with the local rank of Brigadier-General, at the reduction of Malta. Passing over the intermediate events of the gallant officer's life, his participation in the expeditions to Sweden and to Walcheren, we arrive at the year 1811, when he embarked for Spain for the purpose of making an attack on the rear of the French army, which was blockading Cadiz. His arrival at the theatre of war led, in the March following, to the celebrated victory of Barossa, which he achieved in 1811 : shortly after General Graham joined the army of Lord Wellington, of which he was appointed second in command, and with which he fought at Ciudad Rodrigo ; but a complaint in the eyes obliged the gallant soldier to revisit England. Early in 1813, however, he again repaired to the Peninsula and participated in the victory of Vittoria and the different affairs that ensued. In 1814, he was appointed Commander of the forces in Holland, and in the same year elevated to the Peerage. THE MOST DISTINGUISHED ORDER OF ST. MICHAEL AND ST. GEORGE.

INSTITUTED 27th April 1818, by letters patent, under the great seal of Great Britain, for natives of the United States of the Ionian Islands, and of the Island of Malta and its Dependencies, and for such other subjects of his Majesty as may hold high and confidential situations in the Mediterranean, or in the employment of the Ionian States.

By statutes, dated 16th August 1832, the Order is to consist of fifteen Knights Grand Cross, exclusive of the Grand Master, (since altered to eight Knights Grand Cross, natives of the Ionian Islands or of Malta, together with British subjects who may be eligible under the present regulations), twenty Knights Commanders, and twenty-five Cavalieri or Companions.

The members of the Order enjoy rank and precedence immediately after the corresponding classes of the Order of the Bath ; that is to say, the Knights Grand Cross after Knights Grand Cross of the Bath ; the Knights Commanders after the Knights Commanders of the Bath : and the Cavalieri and Companions after the Companions of the Bath, with the exception of the Cavalieri appointed before 1832, now only three in number, who retain the appellation of British Knighthood ("Sir"), and the precedence assigned to them by the original statutes of April 1818. All natives of the Ionian Islands and of Malta, who receive the third class of the Order, are styled "Cavalieri," and all natives of Great Britain and Ireland "Companions." The Grand Master is the first and principal Knight Grand Cross, and the lord high commissioner in the Ionian Islands has precedence of all other Grand Crosses. The Knights Grand Cross are entitled to bear supporters, and to encircle their arms with the collar, ribbon, and motto of the Order. The Knights Commanders and Cavalieri also encircle their arms with the ribbon and motto; and the Companions suspend the badge of the Order to their arms.

HABIT AND INSIGNIA.

THE STAR of a Knight Grand Cross is composed of seven rays of silver, having a small ray of gold between each of them, and over all the cross of St. George, gules. In the centre is a representation of the Archangel St. Michael encountering Satan, within a blue circle, inscribed with the motto AUSPICUM MELIORIS ÆVI.

THE COLLAR is formed alternately of lions of England, of Maltese crosses, and of the ciphers S M and S G, having in the centre the imperial crown, over two winged lions, passant guardant, each holding a book, and seven arrows. At the opposite end of the collar are two similar lions. The whole is of gold, except the crosses, which are of white enamel, and it is linked together by small gold chains.

THE BADGE is a gold cross of fourteen points of white enamel, edged with gold, having in the centre, on one side, the Archangel St. Michael encountering Satan, and on the other, St. George, on horseback, encountering a dragon, within a blue circle, on which the motto of the Order is inscribed. The Cross is surmounted by the imperial crown, and is worn by the Grand Crosses to a wide Saxon blue ribbon with a scarlet stripe from the right shoulder to the left side, and on collar days from the collar.

THE MANTLE is of Saxon blue satin, lined with scarlet silk, tied with cordons of blue and scarlet silk and gold, and has on the left side the star of a Knight Grand Cross.

THE CHAPEAU is of blue satin, lined with scarlet, and surmounted with white and black ostrich feathers.

THE KNIGHTS COMMANDERS wear the badge suspended to a narrower ribbon from the neck, and have on their left side a star composed of four rays, with a small cross of eight points in saltire, of silver, surmounted by the cross of St. George, gules, and having the same centre as the star of the Grand Crosses.

THE CAVALIERI and COMPANIONS wear the small cross of the order from a still narrower ribbon, at the button-hole of their coats.

MOTTO—AUSPICUM MELIORIS Aevi.

KNIGHTS BACHELORS.

THIS, formerly considered the highest military dignity, and the foundation of all other honours, is the most ancient knighthood* in England. Some authorities assert that King Henry III. called these knights Bachelors, for the reason that the title, not being hereditary, died with the person on whom it was conferred; while others, with much more probability, derive the name Bachelor from the French words Bas Chevalier, indicative of the superiority of the Bannerets. In old records the Knights Bachelors are indifferently styled Milites Chevaliers and Equites Aurati, and were known, as Matthew Paris tells us, by a gold ring on the thumb, a chain of gold about the neck, and gilt spurs. They formerly held a certain proportion of land, by what was termed Knights' Service, which obliged them to serve the king in his wars, at their own cost, for the term of forty days. The value of a knight's fee seems to have varied from 20*l.* to 40*l.* per annum.

* "Knights in all foreign countries have ever place and precedence according to their seniority of being knighted; which privilege is denied to noblemen; for be they never so ancient, in foreign countries they shall go below, as Puiſnes."—Guillim, Part II. Chap. xxi.

The right to confer Knighthood was not originally a prerogative of royalty, nor the order a part of the municipal constitution of any state; but a military, and, in some sense, a religious institution, pervading all Christendom; and the honour might be conferred by any man, who was himself a knight, whether in his own or in a foreign country.

The ceremony of knighthood is performed by the person kneeling before the sovereign, who, with a stroke of the naked sword over the right shoulder, pronounces these words:—Sois chevalier, au nom de Dieu. Rise up, knight, in the name of God, followed by "Avance, chevalier." At present, the command to rise is expressed in English, with the addition of the christian and surname of the new knight.

The creation of a knight in very early times we find thus related in an old and quaint writer:— "A prince, being minded to make a knight, commanded a stage or scaffold to be erected in some cathedral church in the kingdom, or some spacious place near unto it, to which place the gentleman was brought to receive that honour; and being come, was forthwith placed on a silver chair, adorned with green silk. Then it was demanded of him if he were of a healthy body, and able to undergo the travel required in a soldier; also whether he were a man of honest conversation, and what credible witnesses he could produce to affirm the same. Then the bishop or chief prelate of the church took the Bible, and holding it open before the knight, in presence of the king and all others, spake these words:—Sir, you that desire to receive the order of knighthood swear before God, and by this Holy Book, that you shall not fight against this mighty and excellent prince, that now bestoweth the order of knighthood upon you, unless you shall be commanded so to do in the service of your own king; for in that case, having first yielded up the collar, device, and other ensigns of honour, now received, it shall be lawful for you to serve against him, without reproach or offence to all other champions in arms. But otherwise doing you shall incur infamy, and being taken in war, shall be subject to the pains of death. You shall also swear with all your force and power to maintain and defend all ladies, gentlewomen, widows, orphans, and distressed women. And you shall shun no adventure of your person in any war wherein you shall happen to be. This oath being taken, two of the chief lords led him to the king, who presently drew forth his sword and laid it upon his head, saying, ‘God and St. George make thee a good knight.’ Then came to the knight seven noble ladies attired in white, and begirt a sword unto his side; which, being done, four honourable knights put on his spurs. These ceremonies being past, the queen took him by the right arm, and a duchess by the left, and led him to a rich seat placed on an ascent, where they seated him; the king sitting on his right hand, and the queen on his left; then the lords and ladies also sate down upon other seats, three descents under the king. And being all thus seated, they were entertained with a delicate banquet or collation, and so the ceremony ended.”

All knights bachelors, how or wheresoever made, take rank among themselves according to the dates of their creations.

Under this head we include British subjects who, possessing foreign Orders, are entitled to the designation of "Sir."

SEVESTRE, THOMAS, K.T.S., (1810.)

SEWELL, JOHN, D.C.L., (25th May, 1815.)

SEYMOUR, GEORGE FRANCIS HAMILTON, Capt. R.N., G.C.H., and C.B., Serjeant-at-Arms, attending the House of Lords, (16th March, 1836,) served, when Lieutenant of the Northumberland, at St. Domingo, where he was severely wounded; commanded the Pallas in the attack on the enemy's squadron in Aix Roads, and took part in the Walcheren expedition. The gallant officer, who is eldest son of Admiral Lord Hugh Seymour, by Lady Anne Horatio Waldegrave, his wife, dau. of Maria, Duchess of Gloucester, was b. in 1787, and m., in 1811, Georgiana Mary, dau. of Admiral the Hon. Sir George Cranfield Berkeley, G.C.B., by whom he has several children. Arms—Gu. two wings conjoined in lure or.

SHADWELL, LAUNCELOT, Vice-Chancellor of England, (16th Nov., 1827,) son of Launcelot Shadwell, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of Thomas Whitmore, Esq., of Apley, M.P., was born in Yorkshire about the year 1778; received his education in the University of Cambridge, where he graduated seventh Wrangler; was called to the Bar in 1803, appointed Queen's Counsel in 1821, and made Vice-Chancellor, 1827.

SHARP, CUTHBERT, F.S.A., (28th July, 1814,) originally an officer in the army, formerly filled the office of Mayor of Hartlepool, and is now Collector of the Customs of Sunderland. He has published a history of his native town of Hartlepool, and is Editor of the Bowes Papers, and of some of the legendary poetry of the county of Durham. Sir Cuthbert (nephew of Alderman Brass Crosby, M.P. for Honiton in 1768, and Lord Mayor of London in 1770, distinguished for his liberal principles during the last century) is married, and has one daughter.

SHAW, CHARLES, K.T.S., K.S.F., Chief Commissioner of Police for Manchester and Bolton; entered the British service as Ensign 52d Foot, 21st January, 1813; became Lieutenant 9th December following; and served the campaigns of 1814-15, including the reconnaissance of Bergen-op-Zoom, the attack on Merxem, and the attempt to burn the French fleet at Antwerp. In 1815 he fought at Waterloo; and in 1817 was appointed to the 90th Regt., on the half pay of which he still remains. In 1831, Sir

Charles Shaw joined the expedition to Portugal, under the immediate orders of Dom Pedro, and commanded a Regt. in the liberating army during the whole of the civil war in that country, participating in the memorable siege of Oporto, and in every action, sortie, and skirmish, in which the British auxiliary troops were engaged, and in which he was seven times wounded. Promoted to the rank of Col., he subsequently commanded a Brigade in the successful repulse of the Miguelite army, under Marshal Bourmont, 25th July, 1833. In 1835, Colonel Shaw received the command of a Brigade in the British Auxiliary Legion of Spain, served in that force as Brigadier-General until Aug. 1836, and was present at every engagement in which the Legion, during that period, took part. The gallant officer is son of Charles Shaw, Esq., of Ayr, by Barbara Wright, his wife. Arms—Az. three covered cups, two and one, or.

SHEE, MARTIN ARCHER, President of the Royal Academy, an official Trustee of the British Museum, F.R.S., Honorary Member of the Royal Hibernian Academy, and of the Academies of New York, Charleston, and Philadelphia, (21st July, 1830,) was elected R.A. in 1800, and placed in the President's chair, vacated by the death of Sir Thomas Lawrence, in 1830. The following lines of Lord Byron attest the high reputation of Sir Martin as a painter and a poet :—

“ And here let Shee and genius find a place,
Whose pen* and pencil yield an equal grace ;
To guide whose hand the sister arts combine,
And trace the poet's or the painter's line ;
Whose magic touch can bid the canvas glow,
Or pour the easy rhyme's harmonious flow ;

* Sir Martin is author of two much-admired poems, “ Rhymes on Art,” and “ Elements of Art.”

While honours, doubly merited, attend
The poet's rival, but the painter's friend."

Sir Martin, the second son of the late Martin Shee, Esq., of Dublin, by Mary, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Francis Archer, Esq., is cousin of Sir George Shee, Bart., and descends from a younger branch of the Shees of Cloran, co. Kilkenny. He was b. in 1770, and m. in 1797, Mary, dau. of James Power, Esq., and has three sons and three daughters. Arms—Party per bend indented or, and az. a fleur-de-lis in chief, another in base, counterchanged.

SPRY, SAMUEL THOMAS, late Lieutenant of the Gentlemen-at-Arms, (13th Aug., 1834,) represents the borough of Bodmin in Parliament since 1832. The hon. gentleman is eldest son of the late Admiral Thomas Spry, a gallant naval officer in the American war, by Anna Maria, his wife, sister and heir of Samuel Thomas, Esq., of Tregolls. Admiral Spry's name was originally Davey, but he changed it for that of his maternal ancestors, on inheriting the Cornish estates of his uncle, Admiral Sir Richard Spry, also a distinguished seaman, who accompanied Boscawen in several of his enterprising expeditions, and assisted at the reduction of Louisbourg (see p. 9). Of the family of Spry it is somewhat singular that it should become a parliamentary one at three very remarkable periods: John Spry represented Tavistock in the reign of Henry VII., when York and Lancaster united; Arthur Spry sat for St. Maws at the Restoration; and Sir Samuel himself came in for Bodmin, its first representative under the Reform Act. The hon. member was born July 25, 1804. Arms—Az. two bars, and a chev. in chief or. Seat—Tregolls, Truro.

STRANGE, THOMAS ANDREW, late Chief Justice at Madras (14th March, 1798); called to the Bar, 1785.

STRAUTH, W. J., (Mayor of Bristol, 22d April, 1815.)

SUGDEN, EDWARD BURTENSHAW, (10th June, 1829;) was called to the Bar, 1807; made Solicitor-General, 1829; and appointed Lord Chancellor of Ireland in 1834. This distinguished lawyer commenced his professional career as a Conveyancer under the Bar; and, in the first year of his practice, produced his work on "Vendors and Purchasers," which, in 1835, reached its ninth edition. Immediately after his call appeared his celebrated work, "On Powers." Arms—Az. a fess or between three women's heads, coupé at the shoulders, in chief, and a dog's head in base ppr.

SYMONDS, WILLIAM, Capt. R.N., Surveyor of the Navy, (15th June, 1836;) received knighthood for his introduction, into every class of ships, of an improved system of naval architecture. He is son of Captain Thomas Symonds, R.N., a gallant and distinguished officer, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Hugh Malet, Esq.; m., 1st, in 1808, Elizabeth Saunders, dau. of Matthew Luscombe, Esq., of Plymouth; and 2dly, in 1818, Elizabeth Mary, dau. of Rear-Admiral Philip Carteret, the circumnavigator; by the former of whom he has four sons and one daughter. Residence—Somerset-Place, Somerset House, London; and Trinity Manor House, Jersey.

SYDNEY, WILLIAM ROBERT, (7th Dec., 1827,) was knighted for writing and presenting his work on the jurisdiction of the House of Lords. He is son of John Sydney, Esq. of Yalding in Kent, (mentioned in Banks' Extinct Peerage as claimant of the old earldom of Leicester,) by Elizabeth, his wife, only dau. of the Rev. John Apsley, D.D.; was born in 1789, and m., in 1840, Miss Sarah Anne Blighe. Arms—Or, a pheon's head az. Seat—Bourn Bridge Lodge, Berks.

THOMASON, EDWARD (27th June 1832).

THORNTON, CHARLES WADE, MAJOR-GEN., K.C.H., Lieut.-Governor of Hull, (2nd March 1831).

TINDAL, NICHOLAS CONYNGHAM, Chief Justice of the Common Pleas (27th Nov. 1826), was born about the year 1777, the son of a solicitor of respectability, and received his education at Trinity College, Cambridge, where he graduated in 1799 the eighth in the list of Wranglers, and the senior medallist. Adopting the legal profession, he soon became eminent as a special pleader, and subsequently, being called to the Bar in 1809, as a sound and judicious lawyer. In 1820, Mr. Tindal was selected as junior counsel against Queen Caroline, and displayed in that celebrated investigation so much ability, that on the appointment of Copley to the Rolls in 1826, Mr. Tindal succeeded Sir Charles Wetherell as Solicitor-General; was elected M.P. by the University of Cambridge, and received the honour of knighthood. In 1829, he was constituted Lord Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, and continues to perform the duties of that important station. Sir Nicholas is a widower with a large family.

TOBIN, JOHN, (11th May 1820,) a native of the Isle of Man, became Captain of one of Mr. John Bridge Aspinall's ships, and marrying that gentleman's sister, established himself as a merchant of consideration in Liverpool. Of that important town he was elected Mayor in 1819, and presented the congratulatory address at the accession of George IV., on which occasion he was knighted. Arms—Vert, three oak-leaves or. Seat—Liscard, Cheshire.

TOMLINS, THOMAS EDLYNE, (29th June 1814,) called to the Bar in 1783.

John Sullivan, of Riching's Lodge, Bucks, and has issue. Seat—Cottrell, Glamorganshire.

URMSTON, JAMES BRABAZON, (President of Supercargoes at Canton, 28th April, 1824.)

USSHER, THOMAS, C.B., K.C.H., was Midshipman of the Invincible in Howe's action; served as acting Lieut. of the Minotaur at the capture of St. Lucia; commanded the boats of the Pelican and Trent in twenty-five engagements, and was twice wounded. When with the Colboys brig, he performed many gallant exploits on the coast of France, and in the Redwing was constantly engaged with the Spanish batteries and privateers on the coast of Spain. In the Walcheren expedition Captain Ussher commanded the Leyden; while in the Hyacinth, having a small squadron under his orders, he made an attack on the Mole of Malaga, spiked the guns, and brought out two prisoners, after a sanguinary contest; and in the Undaunted destroyed a battery, and brought out all the vessels in the harbour of Morgion, as he subsequently did at Cassio. To Captain Ussher was entrusted the conveyance of Napoleon Bonaparte to the Isle of Elba; and no one could have evinced more consideration or respect for the fallen Emperor. The following beautiful and classic compliment was attributed to Sir Thomas at the time. On one occasion, when the sea appeared somewhat boisterous, Napoleon expressed a slight degree of apprehension. "Fear not, sire," replied the gallant seaman; "I have more confidence than Cæsar's pilot."

VASSALL, SPENCER LAMBERT HUNTER, Capt. R.N., K.H., (21st Feb. 1838,) was Midshipman of the Venerable, and assisted in all the active operations of that ship on the north coast of Spain in co-operation with the Patriots. Sir Spencer is eldest son of the late Col. Vassall, who found a soldier's grave in gallantly leading his troops to the assault of Monte Video: he was born 17th May, 1799, and obtained his commission of Lieut. 1819, that of Capt. 1837. Arms—Az. in chief a sun, in base a chalice or; and for honourable augmentation, on a fesse of the second, the breached bastions of a fortress, above which the words "Monte Video;" on a canton arg. the number "38th," within a branch of Cyprus, and another of laurel, the stems united in saltier. Seat—Milford, Hants.

WILSON, GIFFIN, Master in Chancery and Recorder of Windsor, (18th Nov., 1823;) m. in 1805, Harriet, dau.

of General George Hotham, and by her, who died in 1828, had one daughter, now deceased.

WILSON, LIEUT.-GEN. WILSHIRE, K.C.H., (23rd Feb., 1836,) Col. Commandant Roy. Art., (Valenciennes, Dunkirk, Nieuport, Quiberon Bay, Ostend, capture of St. Lucie, Tobago, and Surinam.) The gallant officer is son of the late Major Wilson, of the 1st regt. of Dragoons. He obtained his first commission in the Royal Regt. of Artillery 9th July, 1779; and that of Lieut.-Gen. in 1837.

WILSON, LIEUT.-GEN. SIR ROBERT THOMAS, K.M.T., K.T.S., &c., Colonel 15th Hussars; (Cornet, 1795; Lieut.-Gen. 1825;) the youngest son of Benjamin Wilson, the well-known historical painter, commenced his military career as a volunteer in the army under the Duke of York in Flanders, in 1793, and obtaining a Cornetcy in the following year, participated in the principal battles and engagements till the return of the cavalry. In 1798, he acted on the Staff as Aide-de-Camp to Major-Gen. St. John, during the rebellion in Ireland; in 1799, went to Holland; in 1801, served the Egyptian campaign; and in 1806, was present at the capture of the Cape of Good Hope. He subsequently accompanied Lord Hutchinson to the Continent, and, being attached to the combined armies, took part in all the operations from Pultusk to Friedland inclusive. In 1808, he raised the Royal Lusitanian Legion in the Peninsula, and commanded a Spanish Brigade, with distinguished gallantry, under Sir Arthur Wellesley, until 1809, from which period to the close of the war, he acted as British military correspondent at the head-quarters of the Allied Armies on the Continent, and was present at the principal occurrences in the eventful years of 1812, 1813, and 1814. At the battle of Lutzen, Sir Robert, in person, rallied a Prussian detachment, and carried the village of Gros Gorschen. In 1821, he was removed from the British service, in consequence of his conduct at the funeral of Queen Caroline. In 1823 he joined the patriotic forces in Spain, and was wounded in the thigh, while repelling, at the head of the garrison, an attack of the French on the town of Corunna; and in 1830, on the accession of WILLIAM IV., regained his position in the army. We had almost omitted mention of Gen. Wilson's humane and generous participation in the escape of Lavalette. For several years, Sir Robert represented the Borough of Southwark in Parliament, and took an active part in the politics of the times. He has published "An Historical Account of the British Expedition to Egypt;" "An Enquiry into the Present State of the Military Force of the British Empire;" "An Account of the Campaign in Poland in 1806 and 1807;" and lastly, "A Sketch of the Military and Political Power of Russia." This distinguished soldier m. a dau. of Col. Beresford, and by her, who died in 1823, has issue.

MENZIES, LIEUT.-COL. CHARLES, commanding the Royal Marine Artillery, K.H., Knight of the Order of Charles III. of Spain, and of the Portuguese Order of the Tower and Sword, was appointed in 1800 to the Helder of thirty-two guns, attached to Lord Nelson's squadron off Boulogne, where he participated in all the desperate cutting-out affairs on the French Coast against Buonaparte's flotilla. In 1806, he commanded one of the boats in cutting out five vessels from under Fort Finisterre. In the Barge alone (fifty miles from where the frigate lay at anchor) he captured by boarding the Buena Dicha privateer, of three times the force of the boat, after a sharp conflict, in which several were killed and wounded : this attack was planned by Colonel Menzies. At the storming of Fort Finisterre, he headed the Marines, and was the first who entered the Fort. He subsequently in boats cut out the Spanish Vessel of War St. Joseph, from the Bay of Orosa, where he landed and made prisoner the Spanish Commodore, who surrendered to him his sword. At the capture of Fort Guardia he commanded the Marines ; was slightly wounded cutting out the French Corvette La Moselle from under a battery in Basque Roads, and participated in the taking of Fort Camarines. In 1820, the gallant officer was appointed to a company of the Royal Marine Artillery ; in 1831 was nominated a Military Knight of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, expressly for "gallant and meritorious services ;" and in 1838 succeeded to the command, as Lieut.-Colonel, of his splendid branch of the service. Colonel Menzies received a sword of honour from the patriotic fund for the storming of Fort Finisterre, and has had his right arm amputated. He descends from the ancient Scottish family of Menzies, of Pitfoddells, of which was Gilbert Menzies, who carried the royal banner in Montrose's last battle. The pendant bore a representation of the headless corpse of Charles I. with the motto "Judge and revenge my cause, oh Lord!" Menzies proved himself worthy of his noble trust, and died in its defence. Sir Walter Scott, in the Border Minstrelsy, thus records the deed :—

"Gilbert Menzies, of high degree,
By whom the king's banner was borne,
For a brave cavalier was he,
But now to glory he is gone."

ROSS, MAJOR-GENERAL SIR PATRICK, G.C.M.G., K.C.H., late Governor of Antigua, Montserrat, and Bermuda; is eldest son of the late General Patrick Ross, and representative of the old Scottish family of Ross of Craigie. CHURTON'S ILLUSTRATED BIBLE:

Now completed, in one volume medium, 8vo.,

THE HOLY BIBLE,

With Notes

BY THE REV. HOBART CAUNTER, B.D.,

ILLUSTRATED WITH ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-FOUR ENGRAVINGS, FROM DRAWINGS BY

R. WESTALL, R.A., AND J. MARTIN, ESQ.

On the publication of the Eighth Part of the above work, notice was given to the Subscribers, to the effect that the publication of the remainder was unavoidably postponed for some time; circumstances occurred to render that time more distant than was at first anticipated: the Publisher is aware that the delay has occasioned much annoyance to the Subscribers, but trusts that the additional care and attention bestowed upon the work will amply repay them for any disappointment they may have felt. With respect to the notes, the delay has occasioned a great extension of the original plan, and it is now calculated that they contain as much matter as four ordinary-sized 8vo. volumes.

To suit the convenience of all purchasers, the work will be bound in the following different styles:—

Whole bound in cloth, handsomely gilt.....	£1 0 0
Whole bound in plain calf.....	1 7 6
Whole bound in calf, with the back gilt.....	1 9 0
Whole bound in plain morocco.....	1 13 0
Whole bound in morocco, back & sides very elegant.	2 0 0

Parts IX. to the end, to complete Subscribers' copies, will be kept on sale for three Months only.

XXII.

In two volumes 8vo., price 17. 10s.

THE POETRY OF THE PENTATEUCH.

BEING A CRITICAL AND ANALYTICAL EXPOSITION OF THE METRICAL PORTION OF THE FIVE BOOKS OF MOSES.

BY THE REV. JOHN HOBART CAUNTER, B.D.,

Incumbent Minister of St. Paul's Chapel, St. Marylebone, and Domestic Chaplain to the Earl of Thanet.

"But the predominant charm of these noble commentaries—the charm which is most likely to recommend them to extensive popularity, and which will penetrate even where their learning can be least appreciated—is the graceful simplicity and unaffected clearness of the style and treatment. They will be intelligible to all classes of readers; and are as full of intellectual fascinations as if they dealt in the lays of the Troubadours, or the legends of the Middle Ages."

B. HENSLEY, PRINTER.
